

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of the invention enable generation of an IF output signal amplitude that is less sensitive to process voltage and temperature than conventional transmitters.